Qualified WHS personnel are essential in every type of business, now more than ever. Safety plays an essential role in an organisation's productivity and success.

This certificate lays the foundation of your WHS knowledge base including WHS law and compliance. Next, you will learn WHS processes and how to contribute effectively to them such as: WHS risk management, workplace incidence response, implementing WHS management systems and WHS consultation and participation processes.

You will also develop leadership, communications and project management skills to add to your toolkit.
